MARTIN GOING AFTER RECORD

Virginian to Meet Hillman, of New York, in Georgetown Games on Saturday.

When Martin, of Virginia, and Hillman, of the New York Athletic Club, meet in the fifty-yard hurdles next Saturday night, at the Georgetown University games in Washington, a race of great interest will be pulled off, as both men are of the first class and have made enviable reputations for themselves by brilliant performances in the hurdle events for the past few years, while Hillman has been a member of several Olympic teams and has been prominent on the track in meets held in the East.

This will undoubtedly prove to be one of the closest races ever run in the South, and it will be a feather in the cap of the Virginian if he can win out over the New York crack. Hillman is to be counted on to make the Charlestonite boy go the limit to take the race from him, as he is known to be one of the most consistent performers that ever toed the mark, and a new record may be the outcome of the event.

While in the city last week to attend the Richmond College games, Martin stated that he expected the New York crack to be a dangerous opponent in the hurdle, as he was confident that Hillman would be in prime condition for the race by means of special training for the event.

Martin has been in training for three separate events during most of the winter, and may be somewhat handicapped in his match with Hillman on account of this break in his training for the hurdles. Martin made good here last week in the high jump, pole vault and hurdles, and will very likely be entered in these same events at the Georgetown meet, as "Pop" Langkate will be out after the point trophy with the best he can produce, and will count on Martin to add several points toward the prize.

GAME CALLED OFF

Y. M. C. A. and Randolph-Macon Not to Play on March 12.

In the Intermediate Basketball League at the Young Men's Christian Association gymnasium, the game between the Y. M. C. A. and Randolph-Macon will be played on March 12, but it has been called off by the college management on account of the disbanding of the team after the Virginia game in this city several weeks ago. The local five will endeavor to arrange another game for that date, probably with another college in the State.

The Richmond team took the Ashlanders into camp with ease in the first game, on the Ashland ground, early in December, by a good margin of points. A second game was arranged for, to be played here, but as the Randolph-Macon combination will not don uniforms again this year, the Young Men's Christian Association players will endeavor to connect with some other college team.

PLAYER MANAGER

Fayetteville Signs Charles Moran on Recommendation of Mack.

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., March 4.—H. F. Cotton, of the general committee of the Fayetteville Baseball Company, holders of the franchise in the Eastern Carolina League, recently secured for this city, states in a telegram from Philadelphia that he has signed Charles Moran as player-manager of Fayetteville team, on the recommendation of Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Americans.

CHRIST CHURCH AND COVENANTERS

Second of Series of Basketball Games to Be Played To-Night.

Christ Association and the Covenanters will line up in the second of a series of basketball games to-night on the Christ Church floor. This game was postponed from last week, when the Covenanters canceled the match on account of several of the Christ Church men not being registered in the A. A. U., which prevented a good-sized crowd from witnessing the contest.

The first game, which was played several weeks ago on the Covenanters floor, resulted in the overwhelming defeat of the Church Hill lads by a score of 40 to 20.

The Christ Church players are anxious for a chance to redeem themselves, and are sure to be in better condition for their opponents to-night when they take the floor. The game will be a change from the playing space of the Covenanters, and will give the home team an opportunity to play their accustomed game.

In the previous contest Schaf was the only player of the losing quint who could find the opening for a safe one, and will be a dangerous opponent for the Covenanters on familiar ground. The Covenanters, however, are coming with good shooters in Taylor and Lorraine, who kept the Christ Church guards on the run in the recent game and found little difficulty in blocking at all stages of the game.

COACH STOCKDALE USING BIG STICKS

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
CHAPEL HILL, N. C., March 4.—Coach Stockdale has gotten the baseball candidates down to good hard practice. The last four days have been spent in batting and fielding. About sixty men have reported for duty. Yesterday afternoon Coach Stockdale divided the men into two squads, giving one squad to "Hummey" Wrenn, while he has taken charge of most of the new men. The next few days will be given up entirely to batting and fielding. The coach is having all the men use large, heavy bats; this he intends to do away with as soon as the practice game begins. Then he will let the men select their own sticks.

The new men are still showing up well. Moore, Duncan and Wrenn are the most promising variety material. Armstrong, Rose, Thiffet and Lyon are showing up well on third base. Duncan is making a sure mark for the second base position. The first game is on the 13th of March, and much work remains to be done to whip the team into the shape of a team. Amherst, Lafayette and Colgate, and none of these will be easy games.

Sic Semper Tyrannis

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 4.—A Washington paper has this to say of the Virginia troops: Virginia had in line the Richmond Blues, a light infantry organization that rendered conspicuous service on many occasions. During the civil war it rendered service to Lee and Stonewall Jackson for the Confederacy. It was mustered in for the Spanish War, but did not get to the front.

"Sic Semper Tyrannis" once more rode on the crest of a wave of applause as the corps of cadets of the Virginia Military Institute, at Lexington, came in view, headed by the "Stonewall" Brass Band. There were venerable veterans of the "great cause" in the ranks of spectators, and their vision reverted to the day of death and destruction at the battle of New Market, Va., in 1864, where the predecessors of the cadets won laurel wreaths of fame, where the Virginia boys captured one of General Sigel's batteries, after charging through a storm of grape and canister. Then the old Southern yell echoed lustily, and the inclination came to again sound the "rebel yell."

They were immediately preceded by the South Carolina companies and a band playing "Dixie." An outburst of applause broke forth whenever the band struck up the stirring Southern tune, and as the spectators realized that Virginia soldiers were the striking dress, the shouting was renewed. Here and there along the line the rebel yell could be heard. Thousands of people stood and waved hats and handkerchiefs when the Richmond companies passed.

Cadets Are Cheered.

The Virginia Military Institute cadets were cheered as they moved along, keeping perfect time and carrying themselves as their fathers did in the sixties, but wearing much better uniforms. They were among the independent military organizations of the Second Brigade of the Third Division. "Had it not been for the desperate weather more Virginia soldiers would have been in the parade. Those in command of the organizations here declared that they are being treated well. This afternoon, while waiting for the procession to move, the Richmond men were given sandwiches and other things to eat by ladies along the way. The Virginians will return home to-morrow.

Thousands of visitors from the Old Dominion were here. Many of them came in on morning trains and boats and left to-night. A number of the military officers are attending the inaugural ball this evening.

Review of Parade.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 4.—"Put her there, Jim," commanded President Taft, and the good right hands of the chief executive and of the nation met in a hearty handshake. Relaxing for the first time since the ceremonies in the Senate chamber, Mr. Taft permitted his complete and whole-souled joy to bubble forth unrestrained just as this distinguished pair took their places in the inaugural parade passed into the court of honor.

He then beamed forth upon the marchers and, raising his hat, he lifted his hat to "Old Glory" whenever it was displayed. For three hours he stood thus, Mr. Sherman by his side, while the parade moved on. The sharp northwest wind.

Both Mrs. Taft and Mrs. Sherman joined them, and remained until the parade was almost passed. Even aged Miss Torrey, the President's aunt, braved the elements in complete and undisturbed confidence.

Enormous Appropriations.

During the sessions Chairman Taft, of the Appropriations Committee, in the House, declared that the expenditures of the government have at no time except in war increased as rapidly as during the past eight years, primarily caused by popular and executive demands upon Congress for appropriations for the exercise of rights and functions belonging exclusively to the States, and the abnormal and unnecessary war expenditures in time of peace.

Appropriations during the past eight years, including the fiscal year 1910, he said, were equal to $1,007,339,137, and he declared at the end of the present fiscal year there will be a deficit of $150,000,000. He placed the appropriations for the expiring session at $1,044,014,295.

Mr. Livingston (Georgia) declared Congress should be commended for the millions it had refused to appropriate. Senator Culberson submitted a statement to demonstrate that the appropriations for 1910 show an increase over those for 1903 of over $238,000,000 or about 51 per cent.

Speaker's Valued Speech.

Mr. Cannon, as retiring speaker, said: "After all is said and done in the affairs of parties and of men, what is needed in the public service is virtue; men who favor policies that they believe in and have the courage of their convictions, whether it be the majority or the minority, and as necessary as it is a majority in a government of the people. Strong men in public life, as well as in private life, strike above the belt and tell the truth. As one member of this House, and under the tongue of good report and evil report, I have performed my duty as a Representative and I speak to the best of my judgment without regard to personal consequences to me."
